Hidden Gems in

EPCOT
Future World

Brought to you by

Future World

☐ Check the entertainment schedule for some of the street performers, both in the World Showcase (where you can find British Revolution, Taiko Drummers, Jeweled Dragon Acrobats among others) and in Future World (where you will find the Jammitors among others).

☐ Several opportunities for water play here, check out the "Cool Wash" area just west of Test Track, the leap fountain is located outside of Honey I Shrunk the Audience, watch the water leap from pad to pad, there's also two play fountains, one located on the main walkway from Future World to the World Showcase, and one over near the walkway to Mission Space (if you think your kids might be playing in these, pack a change of clothes). Also outside the Imagination pavilion is a water fall (water up?) where the water is actually flowing up rather than down. Don't forget to spend some time watching the big fountain in the middle of Future World, it is officially called Fountain of the Nations, but referred to by many as the Dancing Fountain. Make sure and check it out during the day and at night for a light altering performance.

☐ Look for the talking trash can in the Electric Umbrella restaurant.

☐ Looking for a cool free beverage? Something a little different than you what you are used to? Stop in at Club Cool, located on the west side of the main fountain in the middle of Future World, be sure to try Beverly or other Coke products from around the world.

☐ Take time to explore the "play" area as you are coming off Test

Track, compete in a game against another team, let the little ones climb in their area, play some video games, or send some cyber postcards to your family back home (there are also some video email and cyber postcard areas in Innovations)

☐ Slow down and take some time to see what Innovations has to offer. Visit StormStruck, Habit Heroes, Colortopia and Sum of All Thrills, (where guests design their own thrill ride them test in in a 4D simulator).

☐ If you are walking past Spaceship Earth at night, make sure and look down for a fascinating fiber optics light show. The kids (old and young) will love it. And often there's no line at Spaceship Earth at night, maybe hop in for one last ride? While you are in there look for the scene at the top where the moon is showing, you may see a lift that is used to get Mickey and others to the top for special events.

☐ A marker that (was) the center of WDW is on the path to Living with the Land, just west of Innovations West, behind the fountain and towards the Lagoon. It once the marked the center of property, but now it's just a circle in the pavement. This is most likely not the center of WDW now, if it ever was, but tradition says it once was!

☐ Try the Behind the Seeds Tour. For a small fee, guests can take a guided tour through the gardens of The Land pavilion.

☐ Don't miss the exhibits in The Seas with Nemo and Friends pavilion. There are exhibits, and guests may even see a diver explain the equipment used to dive.

☐ Disney Visa Car holders can show their Visa card for a free Meet and Greet opportunity open only to them.

☐ Mission: Space Advanced Training Lab lets kids of all ages learn what it's like to be an astronaut. There is even a playground for smaller explorers.

☐ Mission: Space is home to a real Lunar Rover. You can find the Rover, which is on loan from The Smithsonian National Air and Space Museum in the Mission: Space queue.

☐ Epcot is host to two of the biggest festivals around: Epcot's Food & Wine Festival in the fall and Epcot's Flower and Garden Festival in the spring. If you are visiting during either of these times, you will find so many exhibits to explore. Pick up a festival guide map to be sure and not miss anything.
